RUSHING BILLS THROUGH.

IMPORTANT MEASURES PASSED THROUGH AT SPRINGFIELD.

Or Over the Appropriation Bills, the Joint Resolution Assures, and the Banking Bill Are the Chief—No Grant Other Will Be Made to Pass the Senate—Important Acts Sent to the Governor—The Labor-Strike Law—General Gossip.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 13.—(Special.)—It is said tonight, and generally believed, that the friends of the Lillie claim will not make any great effort to pass it over the Governor's veto tomorrow, the reason being given that they have been unable to get Mr. Wilson, the architect, and others familiar with the facts to Springfield in time to offset by the evidence sent to be in their possession the grounds laid down by a letter of the vice-president. The plan proposed now is to wait over the vote until the general assembly convenes next January, when members who were not in favor of sending money which was spent upon the assurance of both Houses of the legislature that it was all right will be present to vote for the passage of the bill over the veto. The Governor has been in communication by the County Boards. It was reported by members from Cook, Will and others, who canvassed that the Vote Reports should have every person to increase to any extent until a sufficient majority was reached. Senator Chapman declared that there should be no discrimination, pro-rating to increase the assessment of a man who had made no or returns according to law. He should be allowed a hearing, but not Chapman's amendment was lost, but a number of amendments which are proposed to undermined and emasculate the law, were defeated. Senator Chapman declared that he would be in favor of the bill were it not for the fact that the Governor has given notice of reconsideration.

The House reconsidered to the military code, providing that the officers and men shall not be paid for more than eight days service in any one year except when on duty suppressing riots, was concurred in.

The House bill to enable the Chicago Sanitary Commissioners to sell for the City of Lake View was ordered to second reading for amendments.

During the entire afternoon was devoted to getting the bill on the amendments adopted by the House adding about $2,000 to the appropriation bill. They were finally concurred in. The Senate concurred in all but three of them, including the one providing $1,000 for the electric lights in the State House, which was rejected by Senator Lemon and others. The Senate amendments were concurred in with about $2,000 to the appropriations to various departments. Senator Curtiss, Funk and Black were appointed a conference committee on these amendments.

The Town House Revenue bill as amended in both Houses by the Senate Revenue Committee was called up by Senator Rogers to correct some mistakes in the bill as it passed the House. Senator Rogers explained that the Senate Committee had made no change in the principle of the bill, but had corrected errors which were discovered in the bill as it passed the House. Senator Chapman moved that there should be an amendment to the bill providing that the Boards of Review to give personal notice to persons not called to appear before the Board of Review of the increase in assessment, by the County Boards. It was explained by Senators Rogers, Hall and others, who assured that the Town Boards should have ample power to increase to any extent until a sufficient valuation was reached. Senator Chapman declared that there should be an understanding to increase the assessment of a man who had made no or returns according to law. He should be allowed a hearing, but not Chapman's amendment was lost, but a number of amendments which are proposed to undermined and emasculate the law, were defeated

DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

THE TESTIMONY IN THE BOODLE CASE ABOUT ALL IN.

Ballsright, on the Stand in His Own Behalf, Makes the Best Fight of a Forlorn Hopeless Job—Prisoner's Denial of All Charges—Counsel on the Home Stretch—Closing Day Almost Here—No Court Session Up to Late Witnesses.

The proceedings in the boodle trial yesterday were interesting, and in the course of the afternoon the testimony took an unexpected turn. Gen. Shiss finished the cross-examination of the defendant Ballsright in short order upon the opening of court, the first being of the opinion that he had sufficiently wriggled in history and effort the direct testimony may have had upon the jury, and desiring to turn something to their imaginations. The defendant Ballsright was then put upon the stand and examined in chief, by Mr. Darby mainly, when he was turned over to the State. His testimony on direct examination was the same unbelievable of biographic exclamation, and the total denial of the testimony of Peter and the Councilor on the points in dispute. On cross-examination the line of defense was developed, towards the close of the direct examination. The defense here rested their case. Ballsright's testimony that he gave Ballsright $1,000 to divide among the Councilmen to secure the said consent and afterwards gave Ballsright $500 as a reward for his own services was of an importance however to lead willingly to do with the Forest Street job. Yesterday, however, they started in the rebuttal by making a determined and ingenious effort to counteract its effect. During the $1,000 transaction, which cannot have exceeded a moment or two, Ballsright admitted the gift of $500 from Allen, which rested upon the testimony of both Allen and the Clerk, and was further corroborated by the fact that he deposited it to his credit on the next banking day. It was proven by Allen that Ballsright had accepted the second proposition for $1,000 and had promised to help him, and that Allen was obliged to help him to get the money. Ballsright admitted that Allen had given him $500 after the deal was all over, but claimed that it was in the nature of a present for his services in the matter of the $1,000 transaction. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had asked him to help him to get the money, but claimed that he had refused to do so. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had given him $500 after the deal was all over, but claimed that it was in the nature of a present for his services in the matter of the $1,000 transaction. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had asked him to help him to get the money, but claimed that he had refused to do so.

The prosecution in the rebuttal testimony called Councilman Lorimer, who testified that Ballsright had told him that Allen had given him $500 after the deal was all over, but that it was in the nature of a present for his services in the matter of the $1,000 transaction. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had asked him to help him to get the money, but that he had refused to do so. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had given him $500 after the deal was all over, but that it was in the nature of a present for his services in the matter of the $1,000 transaction. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had asked him to help him to get the money, but that he had refused to do so.

WARMLY WELCOMED.

Ballsright and Counsel the Attorneys of the Gathering.

Notwithstanding the fact that Gen. Shiss had given intimation at the opening of court that his questions would be few the defense were unmercifully taken by surprise when he closed, having evidently thought that Mr. Darby would be the chief worst of the morning. A hasty consultation was held on the other side of the room, to which, after a moment, Ballsright was called. The result was that the barrister rushed across the back assembly point down to the rolls, and took the stand. Ballsright on the stand with a hearty embrace and a pat on the shoulder to a long of beauty and a pat on the back. On the stand, however, he stood and spoke in a low tone of voice, and was evidently nervous. He was asked to tell the story of the $1,000 transaction. Ballsright replied that Allen was delegated to help him, and that Allen had given him $500 after the deal was all over, but that it was in the nature of a present for his services in the matter of the $1,000 transaction. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had asked him to help him to get the money, but that he had refused to do so. Ballsright also admitted that Allen had given him $500 after the deal was all over, but that it was in the nature of a present for his services in the matter of the $1,000 transaction. In the cross-examination Gen. Shiss read the roll on to him and told him to let his statements take care of the case. This ended him off temporarily, but a second reading of the map prevented a repetition. Taking up the defendant's version of the Allen matter, Gen. Shiss produced a check and started to show that Ballsright's testimony the said transaction before 3:30 p.m. on the day succeeding the passage of the ordinance. Ballsright admitted that he had received the check, but that it was for the purpose of paying a debt to Allen. Gen. Shiss then asked if Ballsright had not said that Allen had given him the money to pay to the Councilmen. Ballsright replied that he had not. Gen. A Suit for Alleged Assault Declared to Be Blackmail.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 13.—[Special.]—The suit of Lot Lawton, Henry Sanford, a young man under age, and Henry J. Owens, son of the wealthy and philanthropic business man of the city, for $5,000 damages for an alleged assault perpetrated in a most unnatural manner today. The case was to come to trial in the Supreme Court this morning, but Sanford's counsel was absent and said to be ill. Young Sanford subsequently stated in the court that the assault was true and that Owens, Thomas F. Congress, was privy to it. Owens having under bail and having to appear in court to-day, Congress and Sanford were both in court. Sanford and Congress then entered the court room and charged that Owens would settle the case out of court, and said that he had come to the city for that purpose. He has shown himself a man of tact and discretion, and has won the respect of all who have had to do with him. The Punishment Meted Out to a Man Who Assaulted a Colored Woman.

DAVIS, O., June 13.—At Jamestown, this county, Saturday night at about midnight, Frank Holmes, a colored man, made a desperate attempt at murder after an outrageous assault upon a colored woman named Martha Thomas, aged seventy-five years. The woman is now lying in a critical condition, and it is thought she will die. Holmes was arrested and lodged in jail, and yesterday morning a mob of about 100 men, armed with clubs and guns, broke into the jail and dragged Holmes out. They hanged him to a tree in the jail yard, and then fired a volley into his body. Holmes was dead when the mob left the jail. The mob then dispersed, and no arrests have been made.

How She Had Her Head Up and Her Prices Graduated—Interesting Talks—How Are We to Tell Whether We Have Any of Certain Bad Men—A Subtle Class of Sinners—Are the Astrologers Not Cheating?

To the New York World: "Why is he not the true evil spirit," is the remark made by a small lobby over a bell handle in Third avenue, near Eighteenth street, where there is for rent to be seen at all hours of the day and night. Lots, numbers, dreamy numerals, numerals, and numerals are there together with the names thereto in "Who's Who." But Professor Horrorscope, who has occupied with the planets for twenty years, and if the record may be relied upon has "read it to the stars."

I rang the bell the other day to see if he were about home. It did so after considerable delay, and a pretty boy in long hair showed me up-stairs into the waiting-room, after a while I was ushered into the consulting-room, where Hon. La Roy, seated behind a small circle covered with zinc, was in communication and grim into the future of the race.

Surrounding about among the [illegible] twenty years I noticed a great deal of dust and cobwebs, as my calling of the night would, and as Hon. La Roy has the air of one who has not to a very busy life. He is a familiar with passing through, or you or I might be with our own hearts and with those by their fire sides. He would have Jupiter, Venus, Saturn, Mercury, and all the other fixed stars the darkest night that ever was.

"How is Pa to Cross," said I, looking with the easy grace of a gentleman of the old school, "should you mind casting into the future for me and about a half hour's time, and commenting for pointers, if necessary."

"Certainly not. What would you like to know?"

"Why, I want to know if I am for the money; if I am a marrying man; if I am going to have much trouble; if I am going to live to be old, and if I am going to be rich, and if I am going to be rich, and if I am going to be rich

GRAND QUEEN TO CONFER HONORS AT MUSIC HALL.

Grand Anniversary Celebration and Ball Under the Auspices of the St. Charlotte Tabernacle—The Widespread Interest in the Administration of the Tabors and What They Have—The Installation Ceremonies—Learning About the Order and Its Objects.

The most brilliant and influential event in colored society circles this season was the grand celebration and ball which came off last evening at Crosby Hall on Twenty-second street, under the patronage of the St. Charlotte Tabernacle of the Grand Daughters of Tabor. It is not too much to say that almost society has been on the qui vive for weeks in anticipation of the event, the Grand Daughters of Tabor being recognized as the élite of the city. The accommodations at the prince of the hall were ample, and the guests, turned out en masse, in fact, the entire city was represented. There have been many self-gratulatory days in the history of the colored people of Chicago, but last night was the day par excellence. It was a veritable jubilee.

It was 7 P. M. before the grand hall of assembly and the social parlors were thrown open for the first meeting of the guests. The managers assisted gracefully at the doors in receiving the guests, who were ushered into the parlors, where they were presented to the Queen and her suite. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers, and presented a very attractive appearance. There have been many self-gratulatory days in the history of the colored people of Chicago, but last night was the day par excellence. It was a veritable jubilee.

Last evening's entertainment was the public anniversary celebration of the St. Charlotte Tabernacle, the most exclusive society circle in the city. The members and guests began to gather about 7 o'clock, and by 8 o'clock the spacious hall was filled to overflowing by the elite of the colored people, who were assembled to listen to a programme of exercises and to participate in the ceremonies attending the installation of officers for the ensuing year. The programme was carried out in the following order:

Music—Band.
Prayer—Rev. Mr. Jones.
Music—Band.
Address—Rev. Mr. Jones.
Music—Band.
Installation of officers.
Music—Band.
Benediction.

The officers of the Grand Queen of Tabor were then introduced, and they were found to be the most intelligent and refined colored ladies in the city. The members and guests then repaired to the parlors, where they were entertained by the Grand Queen and her suite. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers, and presented a very attractive appearance. There have been many self-gratulatory days in the history of the colored people of Chicago, but last night was the day par excellence. It was a veritable jubilee

PERSONAL.

Cashier G. S. Symonds of the First National Bank leaves this week with his wife for a three months' jaunt in Europe.

Dr. Henry Judson of No. 90 Clark avenue, an old and wealthy citizen of Chicago, with his wife, sailed for Europe last week on the Germanic, of the White Star Line. This is the second trip to Europe which Dr. Judson has made with his wife since the Columbian Exposition, for both spent a considerable portion of the summer of 1891 in the Old World. The party from Chicago on the Germanic was a large one, and among the number on the same ship were Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer, who, as guests of honor, were given a reception by the officers of the steamship. Dr. Judson is starting to improve his health, and for pleasure and sightseeing.
